COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT POLICY

Philosophy

The Board recognizes that individuals within the community have diverse interests, backgrounds, cultural heritages, social values, and needs. The Board further recognizes that the Library serves all of the people within the community regardless of age, race, national origin, or political or social views.

The Library does not exclude books that are biased, partisan, or anti-social, or which may offend the tastes of some citizens for reasons of frankness of vocabulary or description, unless these books are also below our accepted standards of selection. A balanced collection will represent all points of view on a subject, even those that might be considered extreme. The purchase of controversial items by the Library does not constitute endorsement of the views expressed.

The Board believes that while anyone is free to reject for themselves materials of which they do not approve, this cannot be exercised to restrict freedom of others to read or inquire.

The Perry Public Library supports the Library Bill of Rights and the Freedom to Read statements, both of which are included as a part of this policy statement.

Responsibility for Materials Selection

Selection of library materials is and shall be vested in the Director of the Perry Public Library and such members of the staff who are qualified by reason of education, training, and experience. For example, the Youth Services Librarian has responsibility for selecting materials for children and teens.

Selection Guidelines

Materials for the library collection are chosen for a wide variety of reasons such as information, self-education, and the recreational pursuits of library users. The decision to add an item to the collection by purchase is usually the result of selection based on demand or need.

Selection based on demand: Library personnel order materials based on expected or actual demand as determined by knowledge of patron borrowing habits and current library trends. Patrons may also request the purchase of specific items by the Library. The final decision rests with the Director, who must consider the special need of one individual or group against the needs of the whole community. Often items of limited interest can be provided through interlibrary loan.

Selection based on need: Library materials are added to the collection for the purpose of updating and further developing certain subject areas. Materials are selected from reviews, availability lists, vendor catalogs, bibliographies, and local experts.

The decision to include or exclude a particular item in the library's collection is based on a number of considerations, although they may not all be applicable to each item:

1. Timeliness
2. Effective expression and artistic excellence
3. Evaluations in professionally recognized critical guides
4. Significance of subject
5. Educational and informational value
6. Representation of various points of view
7. Availability of material elsewhere
8. Funds and space
9. Interests and needs of individuals in the community
10. Permanent value as source material
11. Vitality and originality of thought
12. Entertaining presentation
13. Relation to other materials and existing areas of coverage in order to maintain a well-balanced collection
14. Author's reputation or significance
15. Accuracy and authoritativeness of content

In purchasing new materials, the Library makes a distinction between those which depict prejudice as an aspect of real life and those which offer derogatory stereotypes as valid representations. The latter are not added to the collection. However, materials which authentically portray a period or way of life are accepted even if stereotyping is included. Materials which portray the prejudices of real or fictional characters are also considered acceptable. Materials recognized as classics are acceptable even though they may contain passages widely viewed as objectionable by current standards.

The library does not purchase out-of-print materials for the collection, except in the case of local history items.

Professional and special materials, such as legal, medical, and religious works, are purchased only if they are of general interest.

The Library does not support educational curriculums through the purchase of textbooks. Textbooks may be added to the collection if they provide the best or only source of information on a subject, or to complement an existing area with another perspective.

Periodicals are added to the collection on the basis of general popularity or need.

Audiovisual material is added to the Library's collection with consideration to patron demand and budget constraints. The Library acquires this material primarily in the most popular format.

Local history materials in many formats are added to the collection to be preserved for future generations of researchers. In general, the Library does not attempt to include artifacts as part of the collection. Books by local authors and books on local matters may be purchased even though they may not meet the standards set forth for the general collection.

The Library accepts gifts of library materials, but reserves the right to evaluate and to dispose of such gifts in accordance with the criteria applied to purchased materials.

Children's materials are purchased by the same general principles that govern selection of adult materials. Responsibility for the choice of reading material for minors rests with their parents or guardians. Selection of materials for the library collection is not restricted by the possibility that minors may obtain materials their parents consider inappropriate, nor are children limited to the children's collection.

Reconsideration of Library Materials

Whenever any patron objects to the presence or absence of any library material, the complainant will be given a fair hearing. All complaints that cannot be readily resolved by staff members will be referred immediately to the Director, who will discuss the matter with the complainant. If the patron wishes, he/she may submit the form "Request for Reconsideration of Library Materials." The Director will read the request, examine the item, check reviews of the item, and determine if it conforms to the standards of the materials selection policy. The Director will then decide whether or not to withdraw the material in question and will write to the complainant giving the reasons for the decision. Materials subject to complaint shall not be removed from use pending final action. If the complainant wishes to contest the decision, he or she may present the complaint to the Board of Trustees. This may be done by letter addressed to the Board President. The Board will consider the complaint and the Director's recommendation and decide if further action is needed.

Weeding Policy

The Library continually withdraws items from the collection and bases its policy on the elimination of outdated materials, materials no longer of interest or in demand, unneeded duplicates, and worn or mutilated material. Frequency of circulation, community interest, and availability of newer or more valid materials are prime considerations. Items dealing with local history are an exception, as are certain classics and award-winning children's books. Fiction that was once popular but no longer in demand, and non-fiction books that are no longer useful, are withdrawn from the collection. Withdrawn books are put in the library's annual book sale.
